THE PROCTORIAN FOR 1957

*Proctor High School
Proctor, Vermont
Volume Fourteen*

Dedicated to . . .

David Bruce Emerson

We shall never forget David's intense vitality, his avid eagerness for acquiring all sorts of information, his energy and enthusiasm for a variety of experiences. His ability as a leader brought him many positions of honor - the presidency of his class, of the Student Council, and, finally, of the Vermont Student Council. We were all proud of him when he won his prizes in District and State Oratorical Contests; and how we enjoyed his sense of humor! On the stage he possessed a special quality of warmth which made his every role live. Although he was an individualist, he was most co-operative in his numerous activities, which also included athletics, Rifle Club, the Sutherland, and Scouting. For these and many other reasons we humbly dedicate our yearbook to the memory of David Emerson.

the memories of

We shall always remember the tall, friendly boy with the cheerful smile and the free-swinging stride, who was especially at home in the outdoors. Nothing pleased Bob more than to start off before dawn on an all-day hunting or fishing trip, with his dog his only companion. Baseball was his favorite sport. He spent countless hours in practice during the off-season, just waiting for baseball time to roll around again. Although his regular position was second baseman on the school and Junior Legion teams, he also did some pitching. His dependability, his willing cooperativeness on all class projects, his quiet humor and carefree disposition made being with him a pleasure. Not only for these but also for countless other reasons we humbly dedicate our yearbook to the memory of Robert Illinski.

Robert John Illinski

Foreword

Another school year draws to its close. Another class - our class - is about to graduate, leaving Proctor High School, with heads bursting with knowledge and hearts filled with memories. No more will we rush to get to class before the final buzzer sounds nor run for position in the lunch line. No more will we know the agonized waiting for report cards nor the hours of anguishing study far into the night before a geometry or English test.

Throughout the year we have worked and studied, played and laughed, cheered and consoled together. In word and picture we have tried to capture in the 1957 PROCTORIAN something of the spirit that is Proctor - a spirit composed of happy laughter and shouting in the corridors - a snatch of music from the music room - a fragment of a French conversation record - slams of lockers full to overflowing - bits of chatter between classes - the running of lines before a play.

This year has not been a typical one; but from it we have gained much in sympathy, understanding, and maturity. Evidences of these, too, are in our book.

We hope that in leafing through these pages in years to come you will recall vividly the hectic committee meetings, the dreamy, but exciting dances, the thrill of winning some contest or honor. We hope especially that you will remember your favorite classes, the teachers and administrators who guided your progress, and your many class and schoolmates. Everyone of them is here in these pages.

So, with the realization that our experiences here have led to a richer, fuller life for each of us, we present to you the PROCTORIAN for 1957.

Administration

The Prudential Committee - Mr. George Johnson, Mr. Cecil Curtis, and Mr. Charles Rogers - with District Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Frank O. Stiles.

A great deal of time is spent every year by Superintendent Stiles and the Prudential Committee, who have many responsibilities that require patience, co-operation, and tact. They dedicate many hours to educational problems. The major accomplishment of the administration for the year has been to start construction of the addition to the elementary school. One major accomplishment of Mr. Silvester, the administration, and faculty for the past two years has been the evaluation of the school in order to retain accreditation in the New England Association of Accredited Schools and Colleges.

Faculty

The spirit of our school is reflected in our teachers, most of whom are class sponsors and advisors for our many extracurricular activities. They guide us with a friendliness and understanding and teach us to become adult citizens. Through work and play the teachers help us learn to recognize the essential things needed for our lives, both now and in the future.

Mrs. Lyrace Fontaine, Mrs. Mary Murphy, and Mrs. Doris Miller discuss the English and modern and foreign language programs for the school evaluation.

"How to Propose" - First row: P. Dawson, J. Wojcik, C. Landon, S. Wener, M. Macomber, D. Ratti. Second row: R. Fay, B. Tillberg, M. Illinski, T. Lertola, H. Burgess, J. Giddings, M. King, R. Roy. Directors were Anne Dynan and Mrs. Murphy.

"Married at Sunrise" - Seated: Mary Collin and Judy Hyde. Back row: David Emerson, Elaine Illinski, Robert Landon and Charlene L'Herault.

Memories from last spring - "Married at Sunrise," our one-act play which won the district and regional contests and was one of four presented at state - "How to Propose," our class play which won the junior one-act play contest - making the motto and decorating the stage for commencement - the graduation exercises, our feelings of pride and joy mixed with sadness at taking leave of our seniors.

At right: Class marshal Mike Illinski directs graduates onto the stage. Below: Red Landon, serious as he comes down the aisle.

Classes

Mrs. Murphy and Freshman Latin Students - J. L'Hernaut, D. Oscarson, C. Nichols, and R. Clarino make favors for Latin banquet.

In French David Varga and Micky Mutti tell Mrs. Fontaine of a bullfight in the arena at Arles.

Noreen Canapa, Cheryl Gallus, and Dynan Candon memorize French conversation disk.

Language, Lingua . . .

Literature, speech work, grammar, spelling, composition, all are parts of language study at P. H. S. Some of Mrs. Miller's freshman English students (at left) diagram a sentence - (left to right) Billy Allard, Patty Lendway, Sara Moody, and Diana Burgess. Gary Brown (lower left) reads humorous literary passage as Mrs. Miller and Jean Maki (standing), Janet Belisle and Stephen LePage (seated) grin approvingly.

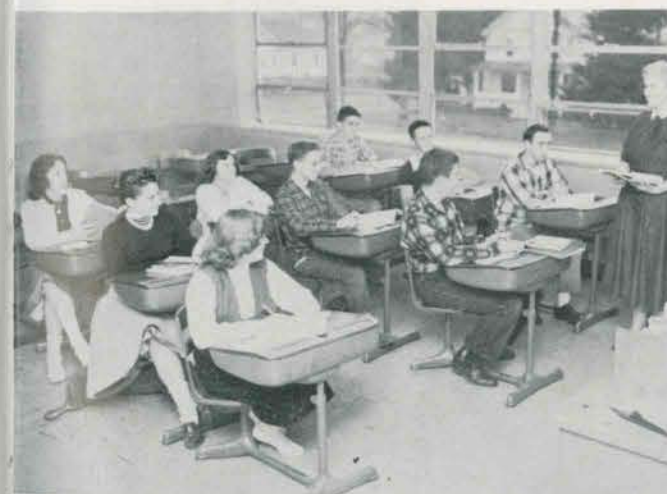

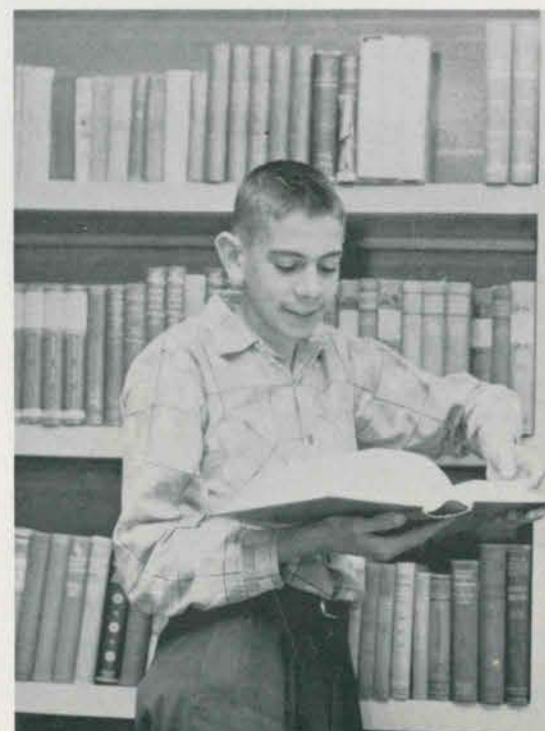

. . . et la Langue

Latin classes conjugate verbs, study mythology, prepare for a Latin banquet, or follow Caesar through the Gallic Wars; while French students learn to rent a hotel room, order a meal, or ask the way to the railway station. English - Latin - French - any language may sometimes be hard-work; but even a grammar lesson can be interesting, as students (below left) Helen Peterson, Mary Turner, Helen Mattson, Shirly Capen, Harold Brugess, Eugene Manfredi, Bernard Ratti, Wayne Dwyer, and Gerald Murdock and teacher, Mrs. Murphy, show.

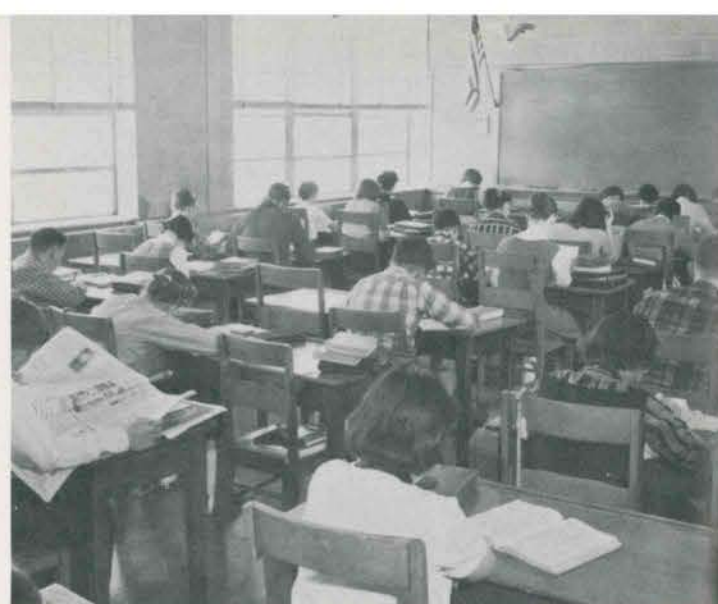

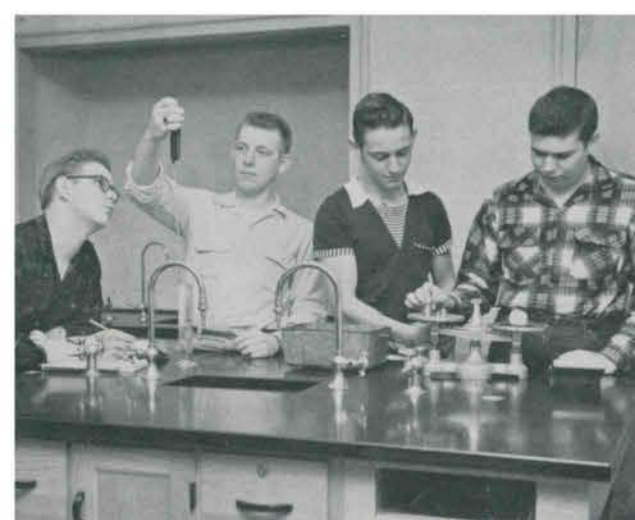

Carol Frank and Joanne LaPenna locate some cities in France.

John Pulsipher (lower right) checks a reference at the reading shelf.

Marjorie Dwyer and Virginia Burgess watch Jane Baccet as she prepares to show the junior English class a spelling film strip.

Students - most of them - hard at work in study hall.

Patty Landon concentrates on correct answer for exam question.

The Life . . .

Study halls, quizzes, exams, lab experiments, research, maps, math problems, are a few of the ingredients of student life.

Business Experience

Patricia Champine and Sandra Wener try the new electric typewriters.

Miss Willett teaches J. Giddings, H. Peterson, L. Pulsipher, and P. Champine to use the mimeograph machine.

Lorraine Pulsipher uses dictaphone in shorthand class.

Seventh and eighth grade girls do a folk dance under Miss Haslett's direction.

John Wojcik and David Ratti, demonstrate a wrestling hold in boys' physical education class.

Physical Education

Miss Haslett explains modern dancing to Muriel Dwyer, Betty Lou Villemaire, and Lorraine Lynn (standing) and Patty Ashley and Oliva Tucker.

Seventh and eighth grade girls play a game of volleyball.

Ray Roy does a straddle jump over the box.

Miscellaneous Memories . . .

Lunch time (above, left and right) isn't just a time to eat. It's a chance to relax, talk, and let off a little steam as well. Warm memories will stay with us always of Mrs. Nelson's and Mrs. Curtis' delicious meals and Almo's constant helpfulness.

Are you sitting down on the job? Bob Allard and Mr. Buggiani take time out for a rest.

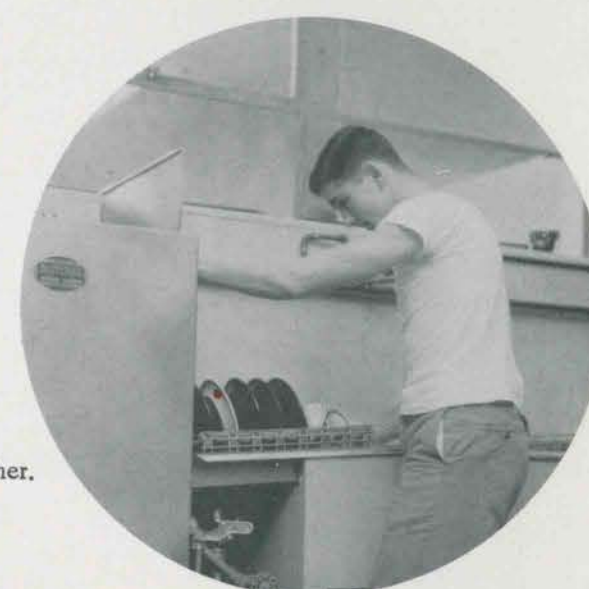

Jeanne Giddings, Mary Ann Bessette, Sandra Wener, and Ola Carleton make candles in class.

Having fun in cooking class are Nancy Candon, Jean Capen, Jane Curtis, and Marie Burgess.

Homemaking courses teach manners, good grooming, preparation of tasty and balanced meals, and making our own clothes. Music gives us an opportunity to express ourselves in song or on an instrument. Both add much to our enjoyment of Proctor High School.

At right: Dynan Candon runs the dish washer.

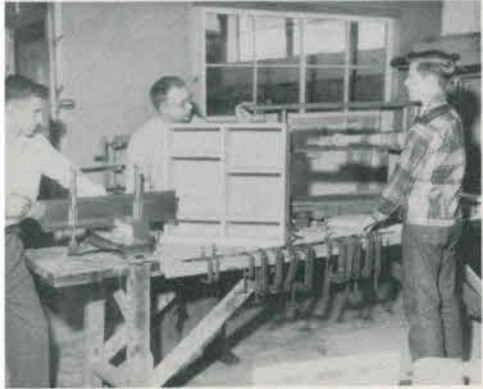

Mrs. DeBarge accompanies R. Baccei, J. Duprey, P. Freeborn, W. Loso, H. Moody, H. Janoski, B. Carrington, and N. Bowman who sing "Down Mobile."

Manual Training

Henry Champine and Mr. Frisk seem to approve of Wolfram Pockette's work.

Just beginners in woodworking, Eric Anderson, Louis Illinski, Thomas Landon, George Mutti, and John Capen get help from Mr. Frisk.

P. Bessette, G. Murdock (at left, front row), H. Burgess and E. Manfredi (back row) take pains with their drawings.

President Tom Lertola (above left, with gavel) calls to order a meeting of the Student Council. Members (left to right): S. Moody, G. Mutti, C. Frank, M. Collin, H. Pietryka, J. Marfuggi, V. Burgess, J. Baccei, N. Principe. Absent: E. Freedom and P. Landon.

J. Duprey, R. Baccei, T. Wener, and T. Landon as elves in junior high Christmas play.

The purpose of the Proctor Student Council is to promote better student-faculty relations. Among its many activities it regulates the monitor system, maintains a suggestion box for constructive ideas for school improvement, and publishes a student handbook. This year the State Student Council Convention was held at Proctor High School. Fifty-five schools sent delegates. State officers (above right) who conducted the business were R. Orr, St. Johnsbury, treasurer; M. Geldert, Brandon, secretary; and A. Therrien, Derby, vice president. At left, Bob Allard observes "Welcome" sign he has just erected.

Student Council

Helena Pietryka explains housing and room assignments to William DeBonis from Poultney.

Assemblies

From lectures to comedies, from music to serious drama range our bi-monthly assembly programs. Planned and presented by classes and clubs, they uncover many hidden student talents. This year's programs have featured instrumental and vocal soloists, glee clubs, election speeches, reports, debates, pep talks, and movies. Sok Nam Ko, Korean student, who told of his country and sang Korean songs was a great favorite.

At right: Colonel Henry Collin, CAP, tells of trip to Norway last summer.

Dream Fairy Margaret Principe puts elf Richard Baccei to sleep in Christmas play.

Sutherland

C. Johnson, N. Roy, V. Burgess, T. Lertola, and J. Giddings consider the raising of funds for the Sutherland.

The typing staff of the Proctorian works hard.

Preparing for a deadline, the Sutherland literary staff, Phyllis Dawson, Cheryl Gallus, Jean Baccei, and Jane Baccei, meets with head typist, Lorraine Pulsipher. (Missing from picture, Eileen Freedom, also head typist.) The Sutherland, published five times a year, is our self-supporting school paper. Since publication dates are far apart, more emphasis is placed on the literary and feature sections than on the news.

Ronald Fay and Phyllis Dawson, circulation editors; Mrs. Fontaine, advisor; and Thomas Lertola, Alfred King, and John Wojcik (standing) advertising staff; congratulate one another on having raised so large a sum from advertising and having sold so many copies of the Proctorian.

The solemn seniors whom you've heard talking of "cropping," "cutting," and "bleeding" these past six months are not really morbid characters. They are just our Proctorian Staff conversing in editorial jargon about sale of advertising, taking and retaking of pictures, blocking pages, typing write ups, and reading the results.

R. Baccei, M. Haley, S. Wener, M. Curtis, C. Nichols, S. LePage pencil corrections in a Sutherland news story.

Noreen Canapa, Mary Collin, Raymond Roy discuss a special feature story.

John Wojcik and Joanne Lapenna, Sports Editors, interview Coach LeRay.

Proctorian

"I canna believe it - tea with the minister!" Nanny (Jean Baccei) exclaims to Ray Roy, the Little Minister, and Ione Baccei, the gypsy.

"The Little Minister"

Our major dramatic achievement of the year was the Sir James Barrie play, produced on December thirteenth.

"Let me see the color of your silver!" Dr. McQueen (Thomas Lertola) demands of Babbie as Nanny looks on timidly.

Mr. Buggiani, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Fay enjoy Halloween party.

Many dances enliven a year at Proctor. Among them the Freshman Reception, the Sophomore Hop, and the Junior Prom. The biggest party is the Halloween entertainment - movies, stage show, dance, and refreshments, given the students by the village. Sadie Hawkins is the dance all the girls wait for, as they can invite the fellows then.

Daisy Mae (Jean Capen) and Li'l Abner (Raymond Olson) reign over the Sadie Hawkins Dance.

"Anastasia"

Dynan Candon as Prince Paul the "romantic-minded nephew."

Greasepaint--tension--butterfly stomachs--costumes of the twenties--as the curtain opened on the Recognition Scene from "Anastasia," Proctor's entry in the district one-act play contest! Although Proctor didn't win, the judges praised Ray Roy as Bounine, Mike Illinski as Petrovin, Pat Champine as Anastasia, and Ione Baccei as the Dowager Empress (center above). Others in the cast were Cheryl Gallus, Joe Marfuggi, Lila Tillberg, Ronnie Fay, David Ratti, and Jean Baccei. Proctor had the honor and fun of being host to the regional contest March 22 and 23.

Roman Banquet

Olivia Tucker, Noreen Canapa, Lila Tillberg, and Dynan Candon (right) watch as the Freshman Latin students are initiated.

Sports

We humbly dedicate this section to the memory of Teddy and Peppy, who always exemplified the finest sportsmanship.

Fall Sports

Soccer, substituted for football here at Proctor, requires a great deal of stamina; but the boys love the game, as their season's 4-3 record indicates.

At left: Cheerleaders Ola Carleton and Jane Baccei (kneeling) and Lorraine Pulsipher, Ione Baccei, and Dorothy Buggiani (standing) take time out to pose for a picture. Absent is Eileen Freedom.

INTRAMURAL FIELD HOCKEY

Basketball

First row: J. LaPenna, C. Frank, Co-captains; M. Mattsson and M. Curtis, B. Tillberg, H. Mattsson. Second row: Miss Haslett, H. Peterson, M. Haley, P. Dawson, C. Gallus, co-manager with J. Baccei (absent).

SECOND TEAM - First row: B. Trinci, S. Moody, S. Northrup, N. Canapa, M. Dwyer, P. Lendway. Second row: Miss Haslett, C. Nichols, L. Tillberg, P. Landon, B. J. Erickson.

At right: C. Frank, N. Canapa, P. Lendway, M. Collin, B. J. Erickson, and P. Landon (absent) cheer for Junior Varsity basketball team.

Basketball

Junior Varsity Basketball team practices shooting fouls as Coach LeRay and J. Marfuggi, scorer, watch. Back to front: J. L'Herault, W. Dwyer, H. Champine, D. Varga, C. Johnson, J. Pulsipher, W. Allard, L. Fredette, N. Roy, E. Fregosi, and U. Mutti (with basketball).

The Junior Varsity Team should make a good varsity basketball team next year. Their 10-6 record this year proves they have what is needed to win.

Varsity and Junior Varsity teams hold scrimmage session.

The varsity listens as coach explains a new play. Kneeling: J. Curtis, T. Lertola, A. King, D. Candon, D. Ratti, H. Burgess. Standing: U. Mutti, W. Allard, J. L'Herault, E. Fregosi, R. Fay, manager.

Although their season's record was not impressive (5-12), the Phantoms made all their opponents work to beat them. As any of the boys or cheerleaders would say, it's not the winning but the spirit that counts.

CAPTAIN TOM LERTOLA (at right)

Varsity Cheerleaders:
O. CARLETON
D. BUGGIANI
E. FREEDOM
L. PULSIPHER
J. BACCEI
I. BACCEI

Baseball Team

The baseball squad turns out after the first call for recruits.

Memorial Fund Committee

FLORIEN ST. GELAIS, Prop.

In Appreciation

We, the Proctorian staff and the entire class of 1957, would like to thank our administration, principal, parents, faculty, and friends who have helped us in so many ways throughout this year and our four years in school.

We extend our sincerest appreciation to all the business establishments who made this book a reality, and we hope our readers will mention The Proctorian advertisements when patronizing these concerns. To our photographers we are grateful for their excellent pictorial representation of our school year.

And last, we would especially like to express our gratitude to Mrs. Lyrace Fontaine, our sponsor and advisor, without whose inspiration and guidance this book would have been impossible.
